

Abraham's Visitors

GENESIS 18:1-14

Abraham and Sarah were now very old. They may even have given up hope of having a child since they were so old. God, however, did not forget the promise made to Abraham.

One day three visitors came to Abraham and Sarah's tent. Abraham offered them hospitality and food and rest before they continued on their journey.

As they ate, one of the visitors told Abraham that when he returned in a year Sarah would have a child. Sarah laughed, but the visitor reminded them both that nothing was too difficult for God.

WONDER:

How do you feel when you have to wait for something you really want?
